[授業の概要・目的]
This course provides comprehensive understanding on the relatively new concept of "Human Security" that emerged in the 1990s and has been developing since. In the former half of the course, we will acquire general knowledge on the concept of "human security"--its background and development process; its international framework; and state and regional policies concerning "human security," including those of Japan and ASEAN. In the latter half of the course, we will focus on three "human security"related issues--food and water resources; environment and energy; and public health.
[到達目標]
To be able to explain about the conception of "human security development" and specific issues related to human security.
