[授業の概要・目的]
In this class, we will take an innovative approach to developing listening and test-taking skills by using a textbook focused on paradigms of interpersonal communication and effective collaboration. Importantly, the text is read aloud by the author in the unabridged audiobook (15 hours), which is also a required text. Every week there will be a test reviewing the topics in the main text focused either on vocabulary, listening, or speaking, and test formats will be similar to those found on the TOEFL iBT. Students will develop academic English skills and test-taking skills in a range of academic listening and speaking tasks. When listening, students will be guided in identifying main ideas and details, taking notes accordingly, identifying the author's point of view, and recognizing previously held beliefs. For speaking tasks, students will express and support opinions, paraphrase the speaker's ideas, and sometimes collaborate interactively. 本授業は、TOEFL iBTを中心とした英語テストの受験に必要なとされる技能の育成に焦点を当てながら、学術英語運用能力を高めることを目的とする。運用能力を高めるためには、意味を重視したインプット、意味を重視したアウトプット、語彙や文法などの言語形式を重視した学習、および流暢さの向上が重要である。リーディング、リスニング、ライティング、スピーキングの四技能のバランスのとれた活動を通して、学術英語における総合的な運用能力の育成を目指す。
[到達目標]
Students will learn to respond effectively to questions on the TOEFL iBT with some reading and listening homework. In class, the main emphasis will be on the speaking activities. Students will learn listening skills for basic comprehension, pragmatic understanding, and connecting information. They will learn speaking skills for planning speaking responses to the TOEFL question types, with a focus on strategies for how to analyze and answer questions quickly and in an organized manner. Although there will be less emphasis on reading and writing skills, key skills such as understanding vocabulary from contexts, making inferences from stated facts, completing organizational tables, and planning and writing a point-by-point writing response will be studied. Time will also be taken for studying academic vocabulary from the 京大英単語 1110 that appears frequently in the main text.
[授業計画と内容]
The course will proceed systematically through the topics in the main textbook. Every week, there will be reading homework, listening homework, and vocabulary to study. There will be frequent quizzes in class.
