[授業の概要・目的]

The objective of this course is to improve students’ academic English ability in economics. Students will read journal articles, deliver group and individual presentations, read aloud magazine articles, listen to audio podcast recordings, and engage in discussions. All material used in this course and presentation topics will be related to Economics. Examples of topics covered are International Trade, Cultural Economics, and Economic Development.

[到達目標]

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to understand a range of academic journal articles in economics, as well as improve their English academic reading, listening, presentation, and discussion skills.

[授業計画と内容]

The classes will be conducted mainly through student presentations (and discussions) on economics topics. Students will also practice reading aloud articles from magazines in English such as the Economist or Businessweek. Students will also listen to podcasts on academic articles and conduct discussions on their understanding of the material. The contents covered are different from the course "Readings in Humanities and Social Sciences (Economics, English)B-E1".

Week 1-2: introduction to the course and guidance

Week 3-14: Student (individual or team depending on class size) presentations on their assigned themes. During the presentation, the participants must ask questions to demonstrate their understanding. Other activities include reading out magazine articles and listening to podcasts on related material, followed by discussion.

Week 15: Wrap-up and feedback

[履修要件]

The class will be conducted completely in English, so students should have a basic understanding of English. Basic knowledge of economics is desirable.

[成績評価の方法・観点]
