[授業の概要・目的]
In this course, students will read and discuss materials related to intercultural exchanges focused on culturally unique psychological concepts with an indigenous psychology approach using English. Cultural concepts such as amae (Japanese), sajiao (Chinese), and manja (Javanese) will be discussed and researched. Students will engage in face-to-face or virtual intercultural exchanges during the semester with students from various cultural backgrounds.
[到達目標]
Students will obtain knowledge about key cultural concepts in Mandarin Chinese, Indonesian, and Japanese and how to apply an intercultural exchange model and framework involving these concepts for intercultural competence. Considering the above in an academic context in English will enable students to improve their English reading, writing, speaking, listening, and presentation skills and confidence by reading academic papers, making two PPT presentation based on the readings, writing a brief academic report, and discussing the weekly reading assignments. Critical thinking ability will also be emphasized as the instructor will question the students' cultural assumptions. Students will also develop skills related to creating animations using an online application that depicts interactions in specific cultural contexts involving cultural concepts. These animations will be posted on an educational Instagram account: https://www.instagram.com/intercultural_word_sensei/
